- 1637 SACHEDINA, Amal. Nizwa Fort: transforming Ibadi religion through heritage discourse in Oman. Comparative Studies of South Asia, Africa and the Middle East, 39 ii (2019) pp. 328-343. "I examine how Nizwa Fort's institutional significance has come about as a result of geopolitical struggles in the twentieth and twenty-first centuries. The fort's shifting role has resulted from a historically contingent outcome, shaped by the intersections of institutions, power, and knowledge that underpinned the sovereignty of two entities: the Ibadi Imamate and the sultanate."

The Rustamides were the only Ibādī dynasty to last any length of time and it is through their ideal paradigm that we can examine the question of the counter-model. Thus the imam of Tahert appears as an anti-caliph who is the inverse image of his Abbasid enemies. Abstract(s): English.
