

W e b. Unuk (Anak).

ROUART, Stephan
and. Naddy.
CEAC. S. 542
1959 (AMSTERDAM)

‘UJ also ‘Āj or Anak, the Arabic name of Og, the giant king of Basan-land of the Bible, hero of many Arabic legends. According to popular belief he was born in the days of Adam and survived the Flood, as the water reached only his waist. He drinks from the clouds, walks on the bottom of the sea and catches whales which he fries on the sun for his food. He lived 3500 years until Moses killed him with a single stroke of his stick.