"The dispatches provide the reader with a unique opportunity to see the motives of the Sublime Porte as far as the measures taken against the Ottoman Armenians in 1894-1896 are concerned. Vámbéry summarised his views very insightfully in one of his letters: 'The more the Armenians are supported by Europe, the greater becomes the danger.' His premonitions became a sorrowful reality for hundreds of thousands of Armenians in 1915." Translated title: The Armenian question in the light of Vámbéry's secret correspondence (1889-1908) Abstract(s): English.
